

If – then Challenge July 2009
2009 © Colourful Stitches and Haiku Authors

If you think you can
Then you will always succeed
Confidence is key

If you are a cow
Then life is “udderly” grand
Milk and cheese for all

If fabric's on sale
Then surely I must buy some Stash now overflows

If only I flew
Then to Seattle I'd zoom.
I miss my dear son.

If love is always,
Then how come our love affair
Ended yesterday?

If I had one wish
Then I would share it with you
Free fabric for all

If my rainbow ends
Then I am standing alone
True friends bring crayons.

If troubles linger
Then your smile is upside down.
Turn your frown around.

If I loved you less,
Then maybe you'd love me more.
We'll never find out.

If it Storms at Sea
Then Jacob climbs his Ladder
And rings the North Star.

If a mother cries
Then so will the happy groom
Wedding jitters start

If we were divine
Then piecing would be perfect—
My quilts are unique!

If I pull the weeds,
Then the flowers bloom and bloom.
Reward for the work.

If I had not said,
Then I would be in great laud,
Oh, hell, give it up!

If it's your first time
Then gather up your courage.
Into the unknown!

If a Buddha rule
Then impermanence is All
Is it permanent?

If in gloom I be,
Then my smile freely given,
The despair shall lift.

If honesty ruled
Then newspapers would be dull
And, voters happy!

If I could but fly
Then I would soar like an eagle
And would know no bounds

If the prism is me
Then the colors exuded
Son's bathed in God's light.

If terrible two's,
Then how fares the age of three?
Would you believe--WORSE!

If whispers could crawl
Then SHOUTS would run
marathons
And singing would dance

If I shave at night,
Then she is awake in bed
Canoodles follow.

If friends gather here
Then life seems so much better.
Together we shine.

If you do not ask
Then you will not get it, right?
Act on your feelings

If water has gone
Then the thirst comes to visit
Here forever more

If you find road blocks
Then maybe God put them there
So you will slow down.

If – then Challenge July 2009
2009 © Colourful Stitches and Haiku Authors

If the clouds go away
Then the sun will shine brightly
What a perfect day

If we truly love
Then would the world see new growth
For love conquers all

If One can see all
Then all must look to the One
Anointed guidance

If ambassadors
Then try to extend a hand
Light cancels darkness

If I make a vow
Then would you believe in me
You never answered

If we really look
Then we may see a soul's light
Through God's loving eyes.

If money is tops
Then you really have no clue
Our God will save you.

If you love me true
Then you will tell me quickly
Where is the chocolate?

If you hear music
Then memory and tears may flow
Opening old scars.

If you feed your soul
Then your heart can fly away
Vaulting over mind.

If you never weep
Then your heart becomes hardened
Cracked and sun-dried clay.

If you must create
Then follow the Muse with joy
Wherever she leads.

If you must leave me
Then empty years stretch forward.
Living in the past.

If it's your first time
Then gather up your courage.
Into the unknown!

If the news is bad,
Then stand tall and be ready.
Prepare for battle!